

Year 6 Comprehension 11: Lila's Dream Adventure

One night, after a fun day of exploring the park with her friends, a little girl named Lila snuggled into bed. She was excited to drift off to sleep because she had heard amazing stories about Atlantis, a magical city that was said to be under the sea. Lila had always dreamed of visiting Atlantis, and that night, her dream took her on the most incredible adventure!

As soon as Lila closed her eyes, she found herself floating in a sparkling, blue sea. She looked around and saw colorful fish swimming by. The water was warm and clear, and Lila felt like she was gliding through a giant aquarium. Suddenly, a friendly dolphin with a big smile popped up beside her.

"Hello, Lila!" said the dolphin. "I'm Delphie. Are you ready to visit Atlantis?"

Lila's eyes widened with excitement. "Yes, Delphie! I've always wanted to see Atlantis!"

Delphie nodded and flipped her tail. "Hold on tight!" she said. In a flash, they were zooming through the water, faster than Lila had ever swum before. The sea was full of light, and tiny bubbles danced around them.

Soon, they reached a beautiful, glowing city made of shiny, golden stones. The buildings were shaped like giant seashells and sparkling pearls. It was Atlantis! Lila couldn't believe her eyes.

Delphie swam through a grand archway made of coral and guided Lila to a soft, sandy beach where mermaids and mermen were playing. The mermaids had shimmering tails and the mermen wore crowns made of seaweed. They greeted Lila with warm smiles.

"Welcome to Atlantis, Lila!" said a mermaid named Marina. "We've been waiting for you. Would you like to join us for a sea treasure hunt?"

Lila's face lit up. "I'd love to!"

Marina handed Lila a small, magical shell that could glow brightly when it was near hidden treasures. Lila and the mermaids set off, exploring underwater caves and swimming through beautiful gardens of sea plants. They laughed and played, searching high and low.

At last, the magical shell started to glow and beep. They followed the light to a mysterious, old shipwreck covered in colorful sea anemones. Lila and her new friends carefully opened a hidden chest inside the shipwreck. Inside, they found sparkling jewels, shiny coins, and a beautiful golden crown.

"This crown belongs to the Queen of Atlantis," Marina explained. "It was lost many years ago. We're so happy you found it!"

Just then, a graceful, wise-looking sea turtle swam up. "Greetings, Lila," said the sea turtle, whose name was Tiberius. "I am the guardian of Atlantis. Thank you for returning the crown to us."

Lila beamed with pride. "It was so much fun! I'm happy to help."

Tiberius smiled. "You are a true friend of Atlantis. As a thank you, we would like to give you a special gift."

He handed Lila a shimmering, silver conch shell. "This shell will let you visit us anytime you wish, even in your dreams."

Lila hugged Tiberius and thanked him. Then, Delphie appeared, ready to take her back home. "It's time to go, Lila," said Delphie. "I hope you enjoyed your adventure."

"I did! It was amazing!" Lila replied.

As Delphie swam with Lila back through the clear blue water, Lila looked back one last time at the glowing city of Atlantis. She waved goodbye to her new friends, feeling happy and content.

Back in her cozy bed, Lila slowly woke up, still smiling. She reached under her pillow and found the shimmering silver conch shell. She knew that whenever she closed her eyes and wished to return to Atlantis, her magical adventure would continue.

Lila's dream had been truly wonderful, and she fell asleep that night with a heart full of happiness and a mind full of magical memories.

And so, every time she heard the sound of the sea, she knew that her friends in Atlantis were just a dream away.
